SALESHEET

On a midsummer night, when the sky was full of stars, we were strolling in the park. Our attention was caught by small shining dots in the grass around our bare feet. They were simple dewdrops hanging from blades of grass, hit by the subtle moonlight.

We were hit by the magic and simple beauty of nature, and our curiosity led us to create an abstract interpretation. This moment inspired us to develop a balancing mobile lighting structure that suspends dewdrops in the night.

The soft lights of the dewdrops are supported by an indirect light, emitted upwards by two spotlights hidden inside the brass cones.

Many small sparkles of dew, which shine like notes on a music score, along a mobile brass structure. The dewdrops are transparent spheres of hand-blown borosilicate glass. Inside, there is a LED source that reverberates in the glass.
